

ROCKWATCH

Fossil Fun for all the family

Join Rockwatch and the British Geological Survey at Keyworth, 10am to 4pm, Saturday 17 March 2012

The BGS will be holding an event for children with the help of ROCKWATCH — The club for young fans of fossils, rocks and dinosaurs. This year we are joined by the National Space Centre, Royal Society of Chemistry, Ecton Mine Trust and the Russell Society for even more hands-on science! Join in a fascinating range of activities and 'behind the scenes' tours for National Science & Engineering Week.

- Try your luck at gold panning.
- Generate an earthquake.
- Make your own fossil replicas.
- Browse in our shop for maps, books, minerals, fossils, jewellery — and much more.
- Stroke a Mammoth or a Dinosaur.
- Meet real geologists and find out what they do.
- Discover the amazing mineral treasures of the Earth.
- Find out why we need geologists in space.
- Visit the BGS Core Store, home to 200 kilometres of borehole core and millions of geological samples.
- Zoom through the landscape in our immersive 3D lecture theatre.

Rockwatchers and non-members alike are welcome. Children must be accompanied by an adult. There is no charge, but booking is essential. Please complete the form overleaf or online at: www.bgs.ac.uk/familyfun
